

Say cheese! Budding photographers from St Kilda Park Primary School.
Picture: Maurice Grant-Drew.

Snap happy students

CHILDREN from St Kilda Park Primary School are out to show the world photography is not only the domain of arty adults.

More than 40 photographs by children in the school's before and after school care program are on show at the Linden St Kilda Arts Centre until 6 March.

Organisers Llewellyn Wishart and Nicola Loder hope the show will be the first of many.

"We decided to make the most of the school equipment available to us and this exhibition is the culmination of six months of quite intensive work," Mr Wishart said.

Childrens' imaginations gave them great scope for taking impressive photos, he said.

"Imagine an adult grabbing a camera, holding it in front of them and spinning around to see what would happen. "They have an openness to experimentation that is quite amazing."